Y. M. C. A. Notes

The Annual Meeting of the Santa Clara County Associations will be held in the Banquet Hall of the Young Women's Christian Association, San Jose, Tuesday evening, May 15 at 7 o'clock.

A strong program is being arranged with Mr. Lyman L. Pierce, General Secretary of the San Francisco Association giving the principal address and men and boys representing the different towns making short talks.

The County Committee desires this to be a gathering of the men of the County interested in the welfare of the boys and young men so they urge all contributors, pastors, teachers and Sunday-school workers to be present.

The banquet will be 50c per plate and it is desired by the committee to know as near as possible how many will attend by May 13.

Plates may be reserved from MR. IRVING W. SNOW or JOHN F. DUNCAN.

The County Committee has appointed C. F. Hamsher, A. E. Corey and Raymond Allison in charge of plans for the Boy's Camp. A great amount of interest is manifest among the boys and many have already decided to go.

Mr. Douglas is spending some time this week in going over the different sites near Pescadero and the committee will probably be able to announce the place next week.

Don't forget the dates June 23 to July 6.

May 27th

This date has been selected as Santa Clara County Red Cross Day, and at a meeting held by the Red Cross Society last Monday afternoon in San Jose President M. E. Dailey appointed Mr. W. C. Andrews of Farmer's Union, chairman, Mr. Arthur Holmes of San Jose Hardware, and Walter Trunkler of Trunkler-Dohrman Co., members of the finance committee to handle the monster benefit base-ball game to be staged at Santa Clara "U" grounds by the "Campbell Athletics" and Alcatraz Parlor of the Native Sons League of San Francisco.

The three parlors of the Native Sons of San Jose and the one at Santa Clara have put their shoulders to the wheel that will make this the biggest thing this county has seen in years, and when we think of some of our larger neighbors that the honor might have gone to, we are proud that even tho' small, we are right in the middle of that old ring. Just such things as this go to make for a better and greater Campbell, and the name of our city will be on the lips of thousands during the next month.

Our ball club is going good. However, we must not lose sight of the fact that advertising of this kind costs a little money, and while all should help, according to their means, still other help is needed to boost our growth. The assistance of the business men of Campbell will be appreciated by Manager Bradford which will be explained at the next meeting of the Improvement club this Thursday, May 4th.

The Bank of Campbell will sell tickets in Campbell for the big benefit. Don't forget the place and don't overlook the fact that every 50 cent piece is needed. This money will go to the above named Red Cross committee. Known to nearly every one in our community as men of unquestionable honor and business integrity, and the fact alone that such men are supporting this benefit is enough to assure every citizen of the sincerity of this undertaking. If you can't go to the game for any reason, your money will be going for a good cause anyhow, a cause that no one can question.

Be at the Improvement club meeting Thursday night and help put Campbell on the map.

Club Meeting Profitable

Those in attendance at the meeting of the Home and School club Tuesday enjoyed another very pleasant afternoon, with much profit to themselves.

The opening number was a piano solo by Miss Bozena Kalas, who has very graciously played for the club upon several occasions and whose music is always enjoyed.

Several matters of business were attended to. Mrs. Waite, upon request of the president, explaining what the establishment of a kindergarten would involve in additional taxes to the district. Mrs. J. E. Bell of Saratoga gave a most practical and helpful talk on the subject of Child Welfare.

She called attention to the present value of child life from the social and economic side, due to the great loss of life in the warring nations. She referred to the assertion by one in a position to know, that there are no infants in Serbia under six or seven years of age. That all have perished.

Under the inspiration of patriotism and a desire to do our utmost in this crisis we should be very careful not to become lax in the enforcement of our hard won Child Labor laws. She heartily advocated work in the home for all children and that they should share in all phases of home life, assuming a share in its hospitality, and being given some understanding of financial conditions which necessitate curtailments, etc.

She mentioned the automobile as a factor in the promotion of family life, permitting the whole family to participate in many pleasures.

The ladies gave utterance to many expressions of appreciation for this helpful talk.

The ladies who attended the district convention of the Congress of Mothers in San Jose last week gave some interesting notes and told how much they had enjoyed the day, both in the social and business sessions.

May Festival Coming

The students of the Campbell Union High school will hold their second annual May festival on the evening of the 25th. This, like the first one, will be a public performance, gratis.

This year the history of the drama will be illustrated by three or four selections of different periods. Music will be given during the program by the high school orchestra which has been doing such good work under the direction of Mrs. Loomis. The Glee Club will render several numbers alone and accompanied by the orchestra. Reserve this date.

GAY COLORS BANNED

UNIFORMS OF SOLDIERS ARE NO LONGER CONSPICUOUS.

Elaborate Costumes That Were Worn by Combatants of the Last Two Centuries Are No Longer Seen on the Battlefield.

The soldier's dress has been simplified to bare necessities. It was otherwise in the old times. The military regulations of the eighteenth and the greater part of the nineteenth centuries furnish one long record of alterations of costume, of solemn injunctions as to laces, loops, frogs, buttons, facings, epaulettes, "wings," and what not.

The dressing of the soldier's hair was a special object of concern. Until the end of the eighteenth century the hair was an elaborate arrangement of grease and powder. Three shillings per man was the allowance in 1794 for these two toilet adjuncts, and the cost to the country four shillings four pence for pipe-clay and whitening with which to furbish up his white breeches and leather appurtenances. To make up for this outlay he was expected to make shift with the renewal of only half of his waistcoat—the fore part—the hind part having to be made out of that of the preceding year! So ran the regulations of 1783.

In 1795 powder was discontinued by the non-coms and the rank and file, but it was still the regulation for officers. When the Twenty-ninth—now the Worcestershire—one of the trimmest regiments in the army, was stationed at Weymouth in 1797 an order was issued directing that the hair was to be dressed "with one curl on each side; the club to be tied high and to be more broad at the top than at the bottom; the rosette to be all ribband and not more than eight inches in diameter, the ribband and rosette to be perfectly black and put on after powdering."

The Grenadiers and light infantry officers were to have their hair dressed "the same as the men, excepting their side locks, which may come down so as to cover the open part of the ear, but never lower, and must be frizzed so as not to blow about." Queues were worn until 1808.

The soldier's hat has been the subject of continual experiment and change, from the picturesque hat of 1686, with its broad brim turned up on one side and ornamented with white ribbon, to the mean looking Broderick cap. In 1751 the three-cornered cocked hat was in favor; then came the imposing miter cap, converting the wearer into a sort of miniature pope; and this was followed by a bearskin of a similar shape. In 1778 light infantry wore leather caps almost as small as skull caps, with a large round peak. The officer's hat of 1798 was a most elaborate and expensive affair, ornamented with the finest black ostrich feathers, with a standup feather of red and black.

The shako, the most hideous hat ever contrived, commenced its long reign in 1800, when it supplanted the cocked hat. Originally it was of lacquered felt, with a peak, a large brass plate in front and a red and black tuft on the crown rising from a small black cockade; and after many variations it disappeared in 1878, when the cork helmet became the regulation hat, in turn to be superseded by the khaki cap, which, all things considered, is about the best headgear yet devised.—London Globe.

Opportunity for Americans.

It is reported to Washington from Peking by Commercial Attache Julian H. Arnold that an American bank is needed in China if American trade is to be extended. He declares that there are splendid chances in China today for American capital, and that never in the history of China have the Chinese been better disposed to America and things American. Mr. Arnold says that there are numerous chances for Americans to establish industrial plants, "China offering the best field in the world for cotton manufacturing." There are tens of thousands of miles of railroads to be built; there are tramways, telephone lines, electric plants, glassmaking establishments, oil mills, and flour mills to be erected, while there are rich mineral deposits to be mined and native products to be exported.

Cabbages and Kings.

The time has come, indeed, to talk of "cabbages and kings." Of kings enough has been said. But surprising reports come concerning cabbages. A year ago they were sold at six dollars a ton, and there was no market for them. Hundreds of tons were fed to hogs and much of the product was used for fertilizing. This year the wholesalers are paying Maine farmers $8 a ton for cabbages, and it is expected the wholesale price will go to a hundred dollars a ton before spring. Half the cabbage used in New England comes from western Maine. Farm mortgages in that section are being erased, and savings bank deposits are growing.—New Bedford Mercury.

Miniature Motors May Be Used By Uncle Sam's Mail Men in Big Cities

The men who carry special delivery letters for Uncle Sam may be seen dashing about the bigger cities on the miniature motors shown in this photograph, if a test being made by Postmaster Merritt O. Chance of Washington, D. C., proves successful. If the machines stand up under the test the government probably will buy them for all the large offices in the country.

PENSION IDEA GROWS

Teachers Beneficiaries of System Now in 33 States.

Movement Is of Comparatively Recent Development, Most of Which Has Come Since 1911.

State systems of pensions or retirement for public school teachers are maintained in 33 states, according to a survey which has just been completed under the direction of Uncle Sam's bureau of education.

The study showed that contributory systems, supported partly by public funds and partly by contributions from the teachers, prevail in 21 states, 13 having a state-wide pension law and eight having local systems. The non-contributory plan, where the state finances the entire scheme without the aid of contributions from the teachers, is in force in the following eight states: Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Tennessee.

This teachers' pension movement is a comparatively recent development in the United States, one of the earliest systems, that of New Jersey, dating back only to 1896. Most of the development in the teachers' pensions has come since 1911.

Few states, it was found during the investigation, make provision for refund of money paid in by teachers on the contributory plan. Massachusetts is the only state that refunds the total amount, with interest, in case of death or resignation. Indiana pays back the actual amount contributed, but without interest, and Utah refunds the full amount at death. In nine other states one-half the amount paid in is refunded in case of death or resignation.

This pension and retirement legislation for teachers has developed rapidly in the past four or five years. Local retirement funds have in most instances given way to state systems, and there has come a general realization, the experts say, that some plan of retirement for teachers is essential in an efficient public school system.

GERMANY HAS RAILLESS ROAD

Cars Seating Fifty Persons Travel at Speed of 25 to 31 Miles an Hour on Suspended Trolley.

Uncle Sam's vice consul at Berlin recently made a report regarding the development of the railless trolley lines in Germany. He states that the most noteworthy example of a railless trolley is the suspended electric railway connecting Elberfeld-Barmen and the city of Vohwinkel. It is 8.72 miles in length and has a maximum grade of 45 per cent. The posts that support the railway are of different shapes, depending upon their location. The posts are from 656 to 984 feet apart and support arches which in turn suspend the rail upon which the cars run. Between the posts there are movable supports which allow for changes in level. The posts are so arranged that there are tracks on each side upon which the trolley wheels can run.

Each car is hung upon the track by two dynamos, 26 feet apart. Each dynamo has two axles between which the electric motor is inserted. The frame of the dynamos is constructed in such a manner that the cars cannot possibly be derailed. Provision is made in each car to seat 50 people. Several kinds of brakes have been attached—an air brake, a hand brake, an electric brake, and a so-called electric reverse current brake, which can be used in case of necessity. A speed of 25 to 31 miles per hour can be obtained. The power of the current is less than upon other ordinary electric railways. This system is regarded by authorities as the most practical railless trolley in operation in Germany.

LOWER YOUR UMBRELLA IF UNCLE SAM IS TO CARRY IT

Parcel Post Will Transport Rain Sticks, but Government Insects They Not Be Left Open.

Uncle Sam will take care of your umbrella for you and transport it by parcel post to whatever place you may think you will need it next. But if you send it by that safe and sure way please to have the kindness to lower it, roll it and button the band at the bottom, and then, as an extra precaution, fasten it between two strips of boards and label it "Fragile; handle with care."

The post office department has been forced to make regulations governing the shipment of umbrellas, because many owners of those very necessary troubles seemed to think that they could rush into a parcel post office and say—like they would to a bellboy or a butler: "Here's my umbrella! I'll want it next in Boston if it's raining when I get there."

So post office officials everywhere have been instructed straight from headquarters not to accept for shipment umbrellas that have not been lowered and wrapped between boards and labeled as stated.

And the same rule applies to golf clubs, if you want parcel post to be your caddy, between two given places.

ASK DRILL FOR INDIAN BOYS

Commission Urges That 15,000 Pupils in Schools Be Trained for War Service.

A recommendation that 15,000 Indian boys of the various Indian schools and reservations throughout the country be organized, armed, equipped and drilled under regular army officers, was unanimously adopted by the United States board of Indian commissioners. The resolution was forwarded to Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior at Washington.

The plan calls for 15 full regiments of 1,000 each. The commissioners said they were confident the full quota could be secured, especially in case of emergency.

The resolution was offered by Commissioner Edward E. Ayer of Chicago, who stated that he already had presented the plan unofficially to Secretary Lane. Mr. Ayer said the secretary had approved and forwarded it to Newton D. Baker, secretary of war, who in turn approved and sent it to Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff. The latter, Mr. Ayer said, recommended it to the War college.

Imports From Spain Grow.

The exports at all the American consular offices in Spain to the United States and possessions during 1916 were valued at $35,458,377, an increase of $15,165,082 compared with 1915.

American Flag Gains in Ship Transactions.

According to a report by the United States bureau of navigation, between July 1, 1914, and February 28, 1917, ships transferred to the American flag from foreign flags numbered 204 of 664,925 gross tons, and ships transferred from the American to foreign flags numbered 405 of 313,811 gross tons. The American flag made a net gain of 351,114 gross tons, and a net loss of 201 vessels; in other words, American citizens bought much larger vessels than they sold. The bulk of the American gain in tonnage has been from the British and German flags, and the Norwegian, Japanese and French flags have made the largest net gains.

The Gift

That evening Seymour and Jermyn caught the same train to Lastburg, and both were just one train later than usual. They dropped into the same seat, and each exhibited a small package as they had been wrapped by the clerks in the stores where they made their purchases.

"Some little present, mine," Seymour offered.

The other grinned answer. "Good thing we got together," he agreed. "Say, it's lucky our wives' birthdays come on the same day, ain't it? Friend wife at my house is surely hard to please."

"Can't be any worse than the missus at my place," Seymour retorted. "But two heads, you know; better than one woman's idea of what she ought to get for her birthday."

All the way home the men continued their conversation, and they were still laughing when Jermyn clapped Seymour on the back at Seymour's steps and went on to his own home next door.

Mrs. Seymour was the first to suspect. She saw the men laughing on the sidewalk, and as she kissed her husband she sniffed for the occasional clove odor. It was not there and she was puzzled, though she knew it must be something. It was after Seymour had gone next morning that she chanced to glance into his bureau drawer and knew that he had been there. Then an examination that held nothing of chance revealed the package Seymour had brought home and hidden here. Then a peek and a longer look showed her that there was a necklace in the box. Not for one instant had Mrs. Seymour forgotten that tomorrow was her birthday, and now she knew that her husband remembered as well. And then Mrs. Jermyn ran over.

Mrs. Seymour couldn't resist swearing Mrs. Jermyn to secrecy and showing her what a splendid husband she had and how much he thought of her—witness the birthday necklace. Mrs. Jermyn looked. She could not help but see that it was a nice necklace, and that Mrs. Seymour admired it. She was half sorry that she came over. But she managed to keep envy out of her glance and tone and then she produced the box Jermyn had carried home last night.

"I just happened to run on it," she confessed. "He had hidden it away in his den."

It was a gold watch. A pretty thing. And as Mrs. Seymour looked at it the beauty faded out of her necklace in some weird fashion. She had not thought she would have preferred a watch to a necklace, but now she did. Both the women returned the boxes to their hiding places.

The morning after the joint birthday Seymour and Jermyn caught the same train to town. They looked at each other, then they broke into laughter. They clapped each other on the back. "Say," Jermyn offered, "the wife is tickled to death with her present. First time I ever succeeded in quite suiting her, too."

"She can't be any happier than my wife is over her present," Seymour came back.

An acquaintance in the seat ahead turned. "You fellows talk as if you had discovered the original recipe," he said. "Just how do you manage to please your wives with presents, anyhow? I never could."

The two men laughed.

"Make them think—" began Seymour.

"They are not going to get them," finished Jermyn.

"As a matter of curiosity," the acquaintance went on, "what did your fellows give your wives for their birthdays, anyway?"

Seymour thought of the necklace he had hidden where Mrs. Seymour would surely find it. "Why," he answered, "I gave mine a nice watch."

Jermyn chuckled as he remembered how he had put that watch away in the desk in his den. "And I gave mine a pretty necklace," he admitted.

"Humph!" the acquaintance remarked. "A watch or a necklace wouldn't satisfy my lady. I'd have to find something more out of the ordinary than that."

"Oh, it isn't giving the gift that does it," Seymour explained.

"No," Jermyn elaborated, "it's the gift of giving."

Signs of Decay.

The pretty restaurant cashier had applied for a holiday.

"I must recuperate," she said. "My beauty is beginning to fade."

"That so?" said the proprietor.

"What makes you think so?"

"The men are beginning to count their change."—London Answers.

Kavala and Samos

VIEW OF KAVALA

KAVALA, the walled Aegean seaport for Sere, the commercial center of northeast Macedonia, has been prominent in the news concerning the fighting in the near East. This historically interesting town of 5,000 people is situated on the mainland across the Bay of Kavala from the island of Thasos, and is connected by rail with Saloniki, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

The ships which frequent Kavala for cargoes of the finest Turkish tobacco in the world approach the docks from both the east and west, for the town is built on a promontory which juts southward into the bay. The port is 80 miles in an airline northeast of Saloniki and is about 250 miles west of Constantinople. In the summer time its population is more than doubled by the influx of peasants who find employment in curing and packing the tobacco for which America and Europe paid more than $6,000,000 annually before the war.

Whatever may be its role in the present warfare, Kavala's place in modern history is secure as the birthplace of Mehmet Ali, the remarkable son of an Albanian farmer whose career as viceroy of Egypt during the first half of the nineteenth century almost precipitated Europe into a war of nations such as is now being fought on battlefields throughout the world. The house in which this witty, wily pasha was born in 1769 is in a narrow, crooked street not far from the Turkish school which he founded, although he himself never learned to read or write.

It was during Mehmet Ali's activities, from 1830 to 1841, as a rebel vassal of the Ottoman sultan, that Russia, Turkey, Prussia, Austria, England and France were kept on the verge of war in their determination to prevent a disturbance of the "balance of power" on the continent. During this perilous period the ambitious pasha, who has made himself master of Egypt by a massacre of the Mamelukes, was the crux of the Egyptian question, and his claims to overlordship of Syria, where his son, Ibrahim, was constantly operating with a well-trained army, gave rise to international complications which for a decade taxed the diplomatic resources of Metternich, Palmerston, Thiers, Ponsonby and Gutzot.

Was the Seaport of Philippi.

In Roman days Kavala was known as Neapolis, and it was here that St. Paul landed on his way from Samothrace to Philippi, where there was a thriving colony of Christians to whom the Epistle to the Philippians was addressed. Prior to the beginning of the Christian era Neapolis was the seaport of Philippi, whose ruins are to be found some ten miles from shore, on the highway from Kavala to Thessaly. Here the fleet of Brutus and Cassius was at anchor during the famous conflict on the fields of Philippi in 42 B. C., when the assassins of Julius Caesar met defeat at the hands of the legions commanded by Antony and Octavius.

Philippi was named for Philip II of Macedonia, father of Alexander the Great, and was originally known as Crenides (Fountains). It owed its importance to the proximity of the hill of Dionysus, where Philip had made himself master of valuable gold mines.

Practically all that remains to connect ancient Neapolis with modern Kavala is a Roman aqueduct whose two-tier arches still convey water from Mt. Pangaeus to the town and citadel.

Island of Samos.

Another Greek possession of great historical interest that has been involved in the hostilities because of its proximity to Turkish territory is the island of Samos.

The strait which separates Samos from the promontory of the mainland of Asia Minor known in ancient times as Mycale is barely a mile wide. The island, which has an area about one and one-half times as large as Martha's Vineyard, lies about 40 miles southwest of Smyrna and has exceptional natural resources with its forest-clad mountains, its valuable marble quarries and its extremely fertile valleys where raisins, oil, fruits, corn and wines are most profitably produced. The cigarettes of the island are shipped to every country in the world while the vines are exported to Europe, where they are used for mixing purposes. The population of the island is between 50,000 and 60,000.

Samos was the seat of one of the first settlements of the Ionians in the Mediterranean and from it went out many of the colonies which dotted the coast of Asia Minor and the neighboring islands of the Aegean.

During the second half of the sixth century before the Christian era Samos rose to a place of dominance in the Ionian union, thanks to the executive ability and judicial wisdom of the famous tyrant Polycrates, who prosecuted many successful wars with the chiefs of adjacent colonies and who was at one time in alliance with the powerful Egyptian King Amasis.

Owned by Many Nations.

Many of the most magnificent edifices of ancient Samos were built during Polycrates' time. When he died the prestige of the island began to wane. It came successively under the dominion of the Athenian Greeks, the Romans, Byzantines, Arabians, Venetians, Genoese and Turks. In the Greek war of independence it took up arms against its Turkish masters. After peace was declared it became an autonomous principality, paying tribute to Turkey, but being ruled by a "prince of Samos," who was a Greek nominated by the sultan. In April of 1912, while the Tripolitan war was in progress, two Italian warships entered the harbor of Vathy and torpedoed the Turkish "stationaire," which had been kept there at the disposal of the prince. During the Balkan war the garrison of a few hundred Turks was compelled by Cretan and Samian insurgents to retire to the mainland, and at the close of the war the Samians declared themselves in union with Greece.

The little town of Tigani stands near the harbor of the ancient city of Samos, where the immense moles constructed by Polycrates have been rebuilt to some extent. The walls and the celebrated underground aqueduct are the chief remains of the ancient capital. The former, which clamber over the ridge in rear of the city, look like a fragment of the wall of China. Thirty of its towers still stand. Considering the age in which it was constructed, the aqueduct is a marvel of engineering skill.

The Temple of Hera, of which a solitary column alone remains standing was one of the most magnificent edifices of ancient times.

Even had Polycrates never ruled in Samos the island would have been famous, for here was born the great Samian sage, Pythagoras, he who never smiled, and who always wore a white robe and a golden crown.

CAT RODE OUT HURRICANE

Pet of Crew Was Carried Aloft in Liner's Sail and Buffeted by Storm.

Members of the crew of the Anchor liner California, which met its end at the hands of a German U-boat recently told a thrilling yarn of a storm the vessel passed through on a homeward voyage from New York, says the Times of that city. She left this port on November 11 with 145 passengers for Glasgow and ran into a gale three days out which blew with hurricane force and raised mountainous seas. The sailors said they had noticed that Tiddles, the ship's cat, had seemed uneasy for 24 hours before the California struck the heavy weather, and spent his time in the weather fore rigging meowing plaintively in the wind's eye.

One very heavy wave foiled over the bridge and put the steering gear out of commission. Three sailors were knocked down trying to get aft to man the hand gear, and the ship had to be steered for several hours with her twin propellers until the steam steering gear could be repaired by the engineers. Another big sea carried away a lifeboat on the port side and stove in the side of the Marconi house, and the wireless apparatus was put out of commission.

The sailors managed to hoist the forestaysail, which steadied the liner a little so that the passengers were able to get out on deck. Tiddles had been hoisted accidentally in the forestaysail and could not get down again on account of the violence of the hurricane. The cat, according to Ben Fidd, the boat's mate, expressed such dreadful things to the crew that they could hear him above the shrieking of the tempest.

It was a fearsome sight, Fidd said, to see the black cat clinging to the wire stay with his whiskers stiffened by the breeze, and cursing the elements. Tiddles hung on until one of the boys went up the fore rigging and slid down the stay to rescue him, which he accomplished safely, and was rewarded with several big scratches.

"Intercepted Letters."

In the letters of Lady Bessborough, a clever Englishwoman of Napoleonic times, a story is told of a famous document called the "Intercepted Letter," a state paper captured by the French from the English.

One phrase in this letter, "obstinate fools," was rendered by the French translator "des Gentilhommes decides." This translation was ridiculed by William Pitt in conversation with the duke of Devonshire. The latter wittily responded: "It is not so ill done; there is some affinity between obstinate and decide, and most gentlemen are fools!"

Hurrah! How's This

Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Ouch! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.—Adv.

Horrors of War Growing; Hairpins Becoming Scarce

And here is another piece of news that will make the girls say "horror." There's a shortage of hairpins. This war has just about put the art of hairdressing "on the fritz." Hairpins have finally come in for their full share of attention. Having a long list of antique jokes about being a woman's prime solution to all difficulties to their credit, the heretofore unassuming little bits of crinkled-in-the-middle wire have at last come to the front and demand a dignified recognition. Now that there may be a scarcity of them they are becoming cherished possessions.

All coiffure builders have announced that hereafter when women want their hair dressed they must bring along their own pins or there will be no elaborate arrangement of their crowning glory. And the explanation for this, worse than terrifying possibility was that the countries which have always supplied the pins for lady's coiffure are keeping all of their wire at home for ammunition.

Yucatan's Water Caverns.

Since Yucatan, where the Mayas built their strange cities, is of coral limestone formation, it follows that it would have been a desert but for its subterranean rivers and the cenotes, or water caverns, which give access to them.

The Mayas noted the course of the underground streams and built their towns round the cenotes. Many cenotes are now found surrounded by ruins, and give indications of the methods employed by the Mayas to reach their cool waters. In Uxmal a cenote about forty feet deep is inhabited by a peculiar species of fish. At Bolanchen there is a cenote having five openings in the rocks at the bottom of the cavern. Ladders made by tying tree trunks together lead down a total distance of 1,400 feet, but the perpendicular depth from the surface to the water is not more than 500 feet.

That's Fair Enough.

"I think, Harry, said Mrs. Barton, 'I'll ask those new people next door to take dinner with us tonight.' 'What for?' asked her husband. 'Well, the butcher left their meat here by mistake, and I think it seems only fair.'—New York Times.

DOCTOR FOR TREE THAT OWNS ITSELF

Athens, Ga.—A specialist has been called in to treat Athens' famous "tree that owns itself," one of the legal curiosities of the world. Several years ago a public-spirited citizen wanted to donate the tree to the city, and to prevent any possibility of the tree being destroyed, he made out a deed for the plot surrounding the tree to the tree itself, built an iron fence around the plot, put up a marble slab, stating that the tree was owned by itself, and had the deed legally recorded. The old oak has been showing signs of disease.

CZAR'S RICHES TO FINANCE THE WAR

Russian People May Seize Enormous Wealth of Their Former Ruler.

RICHEST MAN IN THE WORLD

Private Fortune of Nicholas Romanoff Estimated at Not Less Than $2,000,000,000—Owns 70 Per Cent of Russian Land.

New York.—Nicholas II, deposed czar of Russia, is the richest man in the world. His private wealth is not less than $2,000,000,000. In many quarters here it is believed a large part of this will be seized by the Russian people to finance the war.

Nicholas Romanoff's wealth is largely invested in foreign bonds and stocks. His American holdings are said to be extensive. It is understood that he owns $50,000,000 worth of the Pennsylvania railroad's stocks. His name does not appear in the list of that corporation's stockholders for obvious reasons. Instead, some nominal owners appear.

The deposed czar also owns about 680,000,000 acres of land in Russia. Most of Russia's mineral resources are his private property. Into the czar's private treasury, according to the Russian law, one-third of Russia's gold and silver output is annually contributed.

Since the treaty of Portsmouth the Russian empire has occupied 8,647,657 square miles, or one-seventh of the land surface of the globe. It has a population of about 200,000,000, or fewer than twenty-five to the square mile.

Owns 70 Per Cent of Land.

Nominally the autocrat "owns" both land and people, but he and his family out of the immense total of 948,638,768 acres actually own and receive the revenue from 680,638,927 acres, about 70 per cent of the whole land area of Russia—one-tenth that of the world. The balance, or 267,124,836 acres, is distributed as follows, according to the 1910 report of the department of agriculture, the latest:

	Acres.
Nobility	181,606,519
Merchants	83,321,303
Peasants	85,141,896
Landed proprietors	8,881,539
Other classes	5,678,289

Total

267,124,836
The nobility number about 1,400,000, the agricultural classes (peasants and landed proprietors), 110,000,000. Thus the tiller of the soil and the taxpayer possess on the average about one-third of an acre; the Russian nobleman, who does not pay taxes, possesses on an average some 128.

To put the case in another form: From every 384 loaves of bread produced by the Russian agriculturist the noble land owner alone takes away some 383 loaves for himself, leaving one loaf for the producer, from which the latter has yet to devote a part to satisfy the state or autocratic tax collector.

Income Is Enormous.

Nobody knows exactly the amount of the czar's enormous income. The expenditure of some of it is traceable to certain public works whose budgets are matters of public record, and a large part is known to be absorbed by his family and their dependents, who number about 3,000, and are entirely apart from the noble class, which has no Romanoff affiliations. The czar had an annual salary of $12,500,000. Besides this enormous revenue he derives yet another annual income from his private estates and mines, the latter being worked by common and political convicts.

According to the Almanach Hachette the czar enjoys an annual income of $12,500,000, or $85 per minute. All this is in addition to the income from the Romanoff property of 680,938,927 acres, 32,000,000 acres of which are at present productive. This yields an annual revenue of $10,000,000. This sum goes for the support of the grand dukes and duchesses, who number 48, many of whom draw yet other incomes from private sources, or from various posts occupied in the army and navy, or in the general administration of the bureaucracy.

The Russian autocracy has been, therefore, not only a political form of government, but a tremendously paying business for the autocrat himself and all his relations, near and remote.

STOP! CALOMEL IS QUICKSILVER

It's mercury! Attacks the bones, salivates and makes you sick.

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel when 50 cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can't salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tonic because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tonic instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tonic acts better than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

When He Escaped.

The other Sunday evening, when church service was over, a young curate started on his journey home, accompanied by two young ladies of the choir, when they began a conversation about hymns.

"What is your favorite hymn?" asked the curate, turning to one of his fair companions.

"Draw me nearer," she replied. At that moment her companion, who was walking on the other side of the curate, to make matters worse, said innocently:

"That is only the chorus; the commencement of the verse is, 'I am thine.'"

Then the curate sought safety in flight.—London Tit-Bits.

Costa Rican Industry.

The decline of the banana industry in Costa Rica for several years past has become very noticeable and its effects are strongly felt in the business life of the country. For Costa Rica formerly led in the production of bananas. Plantations have become affected by an incurable disease, and as a result the largest growing and shipping company has found it more profitable to cultivate new plantations in other countries, building new wharves and constructing new railways, than to attempt to stamp out the disease. The banana business is therefore gradually leaving Costa Rica.

Retribution.

A certain man broke through the ice. As the freezing waters clutched him he screamed most eerily for help. Another man came rushing up, and then, detecting the identity of the gentleman in the drink, turned and sauntered away, whistling.

"He was one of those cold-bath cranks," he explained next day to the reporters.—Judge.

"The young officer you introduced to me appeared to be blue." "Naturally; he is a submarine."

TIRED OUT.

There's many a housewife who sits on the porch in the growing shadows of a summer evening, knowing to the full what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her.

That's the tiredness of a healthy woman. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. Just as in profound silence a discord jars the ear more forcibly, so now that she has stopped moving, about, this tired woman feels more acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves.

Sick women, thousands of them right here in California, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, heals inflammation and ulceration.

Los Angeles, Cal.—"After being seriously ill for some time, with no relief from any doctor or their medicines, in desperation I tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and was soon restored to health and happiness. I also recommend the 'Lotion Tablets' to all women suffering with diseases peculiar to their sex. Long live Dr. Pierce and his never-failing remedies. PROBLEM IN CARE OF INDIANS' MONEY

Uncle Sam Hopes to Establish Every Red Man in a Home of His Own.

BIG IMPROVEMENT IS SEEN

Officials Say Government Wards Have Shown Marked Increase in Ability to Take Care of Their Funds.

It is the opinion of officials of Uncle Sam's Indian office that there is no single feature of Indian administration presenting a more difficult problem for solution than the manner in which individual Indian money should be handled.

It is a problem because in this the experts are dealing with individual lines rather than a race, and, if they succeed, wholesale methods must be abandoned and the needs of each individual considered. The Indian office officials have set as their endeavor, through a proper use of individual Indian money, the following:

"1. To assist every Indian to the establishment of a permanent and substantial home built upon land to which the individual whose money is being expended may expect to obtain a fee-simple title.

"2. To acquire independence of thought and action and a sturdy self-reliance looking to eventual self-support, substantial progress and permanent prosperity.

"3. And at last to emerge triumphant from tribal relations into those of individual citizenship, with a full knowledge of all the rights, privileges and responsibilities which accompany it."

Marked Progress Shown.

In this connection the experts say that they have been able to see, even in so short a period of time as three years, that there has been a marked increase in the number of Indians who have built and are building substantial homes on their allotments or who have purchased farms with their own money and have equipped and improved them with good buildings, more and better stock, and are surrounding themselves with the comforts and pleasures of an enlightened and more advanced civilization than they have hitherto known.

It is said that there has been a pronounced increase in the number of bank accounts and in the amounts on deposit, also a steady increase in the interest earnings on the accounts of individual Indians.

Some are reaching out into business enterprises of various kinds, looking to investments and finding profitable ones in farm and city real estate, and others are launching forth into specialties, such as poultry, fruit, etc., and some, of course, with failure ahead, but many making of their efforts a pronounced success.

Tact Is Required.

Indian office officials say that the ideal can only be realized when every Indian shall be fully competent to care for himself without assistance. The proper management of an Indian's bank account is one requiring delicate tact and skill in order to teach him how to care for it and himself without robbing him of his manhood and independence. It is really an educative process, and calls for time in its development. It is felt by the experts in charge of this work that the plan being pursued will bring success, for the complaints regarding the management of the Indian's money can be made to serve him a double purpose—to give him the material things he needs and, through experience in its use, inculcate in him principles of business and thrift which shall contribute permanently to his personal and material development.

PLANS NEW WEATHER BUREAU

Uncle Sam Will Establish Station in New Possessions and Reorganize Entire Caribbean Service.

St. Thomas, in what formerly was the Danish West Indies, is to be the newest of Uncle Sam's weather bureau stations in the Caribbean.

Maj. Henry B. Hersey, a meteorologist in the weather bureau, has been sent on a trip through the West Indies, not only to organize a station at St. Thomas, but to reorganize the entire chain of stations in the Caribbean.

New stations are to be opened up at Belize, Honduras, at Bluefields, Nicaragua and at Porto Plata, Santo Domingo. The bureau asked the British government to open up stations on several small British islands. The ships of the United Fruit company are being asked to send in regular reports by wireless.

The only weather and storm forecasts for the Caribbean are issued by the United States weather bureau—in deed, no other government ever attempted it. When the Spanish war broke out the navy had absolutely no way to get forecasts of hurricanes, and a real hurricane probably would have wiped out the entire navy.

President McKinley asked for an emergency appropriation for a weather bureau service and one was started just as the hurricane season opened in July of that year, so that the navy had warning of all approaching storms. Since then the number of stations has been increased.

Hunters Guard Against Becoming Overheated in Cold Climate of Alaska

The danger of getting overheated in a cold climate is well understood by the Indians of Alaska. A government official there explains how carefully they guard against the danger of freezing to death in consequence of allowing themselves to become too warm.

On the Upper Yukon the old method of moose-hunting in early winter was for the Indians to go out on snowshoes after a heavy snowfall in search of fresh trails. When one was found, the swiftest runner of the party prepared himself to run down the moose. Stripped of all clothing except a shirt and breeches, and carrying a light shotgun loaded with ball, he started off after the animal, while the women and slower runners followed more leisurely.

Sometimes a moose would run eight or ten miles before being overtaken. The runner never stopped until he had overtaken and killed it; and he never stopped then. The cold at that season is very intense. The hunter, heated with his long run, would quickly have frozen to death if he had stopped. For that reason, after having killed the moose, he returned to camp at a run, leaving his followers, who were more thickly clothed than he and less heated, to cut up the carcass and drag it home.

The Logical Reply.

At a fancy-dress ball for children, says an exchange, a policeman stationed at the door was instructed not to admit any adult.

An excited woman came running up to the door and demanded admission. "I'm sorry, mum," replied the policeman, "but I can't let anyone in but children."

"But my child is dressed as a butterfly," exclaimed the woman, "and has forgotten her wings!"

"Can't help it," replied the policeman; "orders is orders. You'll have to let her go as a caterpillar."—Youth's Companion.

Experiments show that when fitted with double windows an equivalent temperature of 70 degrees can be maintained with the same amount of coal formerly required to maintain a temperature of 60 degrees. Creation of a Knight
The ceremonies at the creation of a Knight have been various. The principal were a box on the ear and a stroke with a sword on the shoulder. John of Salisbury tells us the blow with the naked fist was in use among the ancient Normans. By this it was that William the Conqueror conferred the honor of knighthood on his son Henry. It was afterward changed into a blow with the flat of the sword on the shoulder of the knight.
One Exception at Least.

Announcement Dinner

At a seven o'clock dinner Saturday, April 21, given by Miss Melie Roden at her home in Oakdale, Cal., Miss Myrtle Claire Leitch of that city, announced her engagement to James Le Roy Sawyer of Campbell. Tiny old fashioned bouquets in lace doilies marked the guests' places, and a delirious card with the names of the engaged couple and simply "50-50" told the story.

The dinner was an elaborate one and twelve of the bride-to-be's friends were present. Miss Leitch wore a very handsome gown of chiffon, heavily embroidered, and very charmingly received the good wishes of her friends.
The wedding will take place some time in June.

Robbed

A neat piece of plain and unadorned burglarly was pulled off last Sunday when Umpire Fleischman made a decision at 3rd base that cost our "Athletics" their contest with Mayfield by a score of 3-1.

Mayfield scored in the first frame. Vargas fanned, H. Fleischman hit to right. Mills fled out to center. Callahan hit to Purdy, who muffed it up. Fleischman scoring. J. Fleischman fanned. The score remained that way until the 8th. Bydekarren singled thru short, Purdy and Wayland both taking the strike out route to the bench. Ross then singled, advancing "Dutch" to second. Paul smashed one to second that was too hot for the base-man and "Dutch" romped home, Ross going to third and Paul to second. The next man up hit the air and we shuffled the game. Mayfield came right back. Mills was thrown out at first. Callahan was safe when Rhyne booted one at third. H. Fleischman hit to Paul who exercised his right of a fielder's choice and threw Callahan out at second, Purdy taking the throw. G. Vargas won a walk, H. Fleischman going to second. Fleischman tried to steal 3rd but Bradberry (our new catcher from Des Moines of the Western League) made a perfect peg to Rhyne and Rhyne tagged the runner a full two feet off the base but Umpire Fleischman called him safe. This beat us, as the next man up, Grieb, hit for two sacks scoring Fleischman and Vargas.

Our boys came back in the 9th but could not rally. Morton hit to pitcher. Bradberry was thrown out by short-stop, and Rhyne swung like a gate. Ross was the king of the day with the stick, getting a triple and a single out of 4 times up. Paul let them down with only 5 hits and we gathered as many off Grieb. Our club goes to Redwood City next Sunday.

Manager Bradford says that numerous inquiries are made in the towns the club visits regarding Campbell and what we have here, which goes to show that the Ball club is, after all, the best "big circuit" advertising scheme our little town has ever had.

Greeting the King.
King Alfonso of Spain is given to the habit of mingling with his people unexpectedly and unannounced. Some little time ago he visited a small town near Madrid and walked about the streets. But the rumor of his presence somehow got abroad, and he suddenly found himself among an excited throng, all of whom were "looking for Alfonso."

"HAVE A LOOK AT ME."

One excited old lady began to exclaim shrilly when he was near her: "Get out of the way!" she cried. "How can I see what the king is like if you will crowd me so!"
Turning, with a smile, to the excited old lady, King Alfonso whispered: "Have a look at me—I am the king."
"King!" she exclaimed scornfully. "You the king! Don't tell me that, your blackguard. Why, you're more like some one who has come to blow the poor boy up!"

Reveille

This is the time for you to show
The stuff from which you are made;
Are you a man with good red blood,
Or a weakling in pretense arrayed?

Are you ready to help your native land
With your heart, your life, your all,
Are you ready to take a patriot's stand,
Are you ready if need, to fall?

You boast of love for native land,
Of devotion to country's flag;
Now is the time to answer her call
With footsteps that never lag.

List to the call of the Colors today;
The White says "Be brave, Be true."
The Red says "Give the blood of your hearts
To the land which has nourished you".

The Blue holds a message of peace to come
When the azure of God's own sky
Smiles on a land that is cleansed by blood
Of the heroes who do and die.

You may be called to shoulder a gun,
Show what your courage is worth;
Your duty may be to toil with a spade,
Be true to the land of your birth.

Oh, Men, Your country is calling you now
To give the best that's in you,
Let answer come straight from loyal hearts
Be true to the RED, WHITE and BLUE.

Charlotte Rooster.

Samuel O'Keefe, a retired Wall street man, is almost a daily visitor at a hospital for joint diseases, where a friend is receiving treatment. There are many invalid children at the hospital and Mr. O'Keefe often takes them candy, and on one memorable occasion imported a consignment of charlotte russe.

A day or two following the charlotte russe festival he visited the children's ward again and was greeted by loud shouts of approval. His arrival was first noted by a little boy, said by the nurses to be "as smart as a whip," who shouted gleefully:

"Oh, look! here comes the charlotte rooster!"

Under the circumstances Mr. O'Keefe felt that any further refreshment ought to be "on him."—New York Sun.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
